3 families each travel to a different exotic destination to share the daily life of an authentic tribe.

All family members will have to live by the strict rules and habits of the tribal community that haven't changed for centuries. They will have to give up all Western comforts: no electricity or running water... no soft mattress ... no internet... not even privacy!

Family values will be challenged... And relationships are put to the test...

But the rewards are big as the families will encounter the world's most fascinating people... They will build new friendships that will change their view on life forever.

Ticket to the Tribes is confrontational, hilarious but above all heart-warming entertainment, that shows we can all push our boundaries... with just a little help from our friends and family.
